

WROCLAW GLOBAL TALKS

Wroclaw University of Economics and Business

Wroclaw University of Economics and Business is pleased to announce a new project, "Wroclaw Global Talks", which aligns with the Strategy 2030 and the Internationalization Development Plan of the WUEB - two key documents that set the direction for the development of our university.

The project aims to:

1. Strengthen the position and recognition of the WUEB in the international market.
2. Create a platform for showcasing good practices and expertise from the leading academic institutions experts at both national and international forums.

The project meetings will take the form of seminars and/or webinars, during which experts from the international academic institutions will engage in discussions with invited representatives from business, academia, politics, diplomacy, and non-governmental organizations. Experts may invite specific guests or suggest areas for guest invitations.

We are seeking experts in areas that have a significant and current impact on the international market. Some example discussion topics include megatrends, geopolitical environment, sustainable development, the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, international migration, mental health, future skills, and the development of artificial intelligence. The catalogue is open.

Debates within "Wroclaw Global Talks" will begin in October 2023, but we invite you to submit potential experts and proposed debate topics now.

Let's address important, challenging topics that showcase our advantage!

The project is coordinated by the International Cooperation Center of the WUEB.
