

Marcin Wardaszko

Marcin Wardaszko, PhD, is Director of Center for Simulation Games and Gamification and Director of MBA for IT at Kozminski University. Since 2003 he is trainer and developer of simulation games for business and consulting. Board member at Association for Business Simulation and Experiential Learning and member at International Simulation and Gaming Association. He is actively teaching, researching and publishing in the field of using games for learning, teaching and engaging people. Huge supporter of gamification and member of gamification experts network, he believes that games and gamification will change the way we learn and work.