

Sergey Myasoedov

Sergey Myasoedov is Vice-Rector of the Russian Presidential Academy, Dean of the Institute of Business Studies (IBS-Moscow), and President of RABE – Russian Association of Business Education.

He graduated (1977) and got PhD in Economics (1980) at the Moscow University of International Relations (MGIMO). He studied at Durham Business School, Great Britain (1991); Wharton Business School, University of Pennsylvania, USA (1992) and Harvard Business School, USA (1993). In 2000 he got his second PhD in Sociology at the Moscow State University.

Since 2011 he is Vice-Rector of the Russian Presidential Academy, the biggest Russian University with 220 thousand students and 68 campuses. He has been Dean of IBS-Moscow since 1996, and was elected as the President of RABE in 2010. He is also a Member of CEEMAN Board and the Board of Russian Management Association.

Dr. Myasoedov has published seven books and more than 100 of articles on economic reforms, cross-cultural management, and leadership. He teaches cross-cultural management and leadership.