

Juntao Song

Juntao Song is currently working for the CEO of Alibaba Group, coordinating the internal teams to develop business overseas. In particular he is in charge of the EWTP pilot project to help build up an e-infrastructure to enable and empower SMEs go international and benefit from globalization. With his leadership, the first overseas EWTP pilot was launched in KL in March by the Prime Minister and Jack Ma. Before that, Juntao had worked in China central government for almost 20 years. He is an expert in tariff polices, customs management and border control. He was also involved in FTA negotiations between China and foreign countries.

Mr. Song got his Master of Economics of Development at Australian National University with scholarship funded by the International Monetary Fund in 2003. He was also awarded the Certificate of Financial Programming and Policies in the Sino-IMF Joint Training Program.